Fly fishing in Fernie Trout Town

Truly one of North America's best fly-fishing destinations. Enjoy easy access to a host of mountain lakes and the clear freestone waters of the Elk River and its many tributaries—home to one of the largest remaining populations of wild, pure-strain Westslope Cutthroat Trout and an abundance of monster Bull Trout. Guided fly-fishing is the difference between a great day and a perfect day. Tailored to every level of ability, choose from guided float trips, walk and wade, or learn-to-fish tours from experienced local guides at Elk River Guiding, Fernie Wilderness Adventures or Kootenay Fly Shop & Guiding.

Paddling adventures.

A whitewater rafting or inflatable kayaking trip with Canyon Raft Co. or Mountain High River Adventures is your ticket to adventure. For a gentler river experience, take a scenic float tour or a lesson in stand-up paddle boarding (SUP). Watch for wildlife on the water's edge including eagles, blue herons and beavers, and maybe even glimpse a stately elk or black bear.

Pick up a copy of the Elk River Map showing all paddle sport locations, put-ins & take-outs, and more. Fernie is a gateway to many area rivers and lakes for the self-guided explorer to experience. Connect with local sports & guide shops for top tips.

Winter in Fernie, BC

Winter season is what Fernie is most known for across the globe thanks to legendary annual snowfalls. From November to mid-April, snowy mountains radiate in bright winter sun above our welcoming town. Forest trails and alpine bowls create a winter wonderland offering acres of unrivalled adventures and soul-soothing activities.

The very mountains that we play among have inspired the legends that define Fernie, where the mythical Griz brings the pillowy soft snow that we call champagne powder. Celebrate the best of winter at the annual Griz Days winter festival.

The winter season has been welcoming and inspiring visitors for decades to enjoy ski slopes at Fernie Alpine Resort, acres of Catskiing in two distinct areas, extensive big mountain snowmobiling terrain, and maintained trail systems for Nordic skiing, snowshoeing and fatbiking. The convenience of ski-in ski-out lodging, a diverse range of on-mountain and in-town dining options and warm mountain hospitality provide guests with a true Canadian Rockies experience.

Fernie Alpine Resort

Situated along the Powder Highway, Fernie Alpine Resort benefits from the best of the northwest weather effect known locally as the 'Fernie Factor'. The encircling mountains create a microclimate – bringing wave after wave of fresh white powder snow and turning each day into a thrilling new adventure of ever-changing vistas and discoveries.

An average of over 30 feet of snow per season and 142 runs for all abilities would be enough to keep most skiers and riders happy; add to this high-speed quads with virtually no lift lines, five alpine bowls, extensive gladed terrain, plus the joy of skiing without the need to acclimatize, and you may just think you've hit the winter jackpot.

Blue runs offering extensive intermediate terrain conveniently connect to gently graded and immaculately groomed beginner runs. The sheltering ridges of the Lizard Range tower over the expansive glades and open profiles of the alpine bowls at Fernie Alpine Resort's powder-packed upper reaches. Steep, deep and daring advanced terrain is featured across the mountain, with black and double black diamond runs which add challenging aspects and extreme gradient powder runs for confident intermediates and experts.

More than just a ski and snowboard destination, there is a passionate outdoor culture at Fernie Alpine Resort that celebrates the natural beauty of the Rocky Mountain environment and all it offers. Share stories with new friends as you dine and après around the resort village, then soothe the day's accomplishments at the resort spa or chalet hot tub.

Experience the convenience of Fernie Alpine Resort's slopeside village with ski-in ski-out and on-mountain lodges, condos and resort homes along with a pedestrian central plaza offering dining and shopping. Enjoy a casual mountain-top lunch at Lost Boys Café, live music at the famous Griz Bar, local FBC beer at Rusty Edge or dine around a crackling fire at Cirque Restaurant.
